STRICTLY POLITICAL

He's baaaack!

Just when you thought it was safe to go into the water . . . School Board member Jerry Cammarata has, seemingly, returned to the campaign trail.

The former Republican Assembly candidate, who got clobbered by Democratic Assemblyman Eric Vitaliano last fall, has put together an oversize postcard that looks very much like a piece of campaign literature. The cards have been turning up on the counters of convenience stores and the like. He's also been seen handing them out outside Borough Hall.

There's a picture of Cammarata — in shirt-sleeves and tie — talking to a couple of people on a playground with three children on a slide nearby. The headline reads: "Have a Safe and Healthy Summer." Followed by: "Drive Safely." "Wear Your Seatbelt." "Watch for Children Crossing Our Streets."

Jeez, what novel advice.
