

Lifestyle/Personalities

Inside out

Visiting the White House

Jerry Cammarata, secretary to the Community School Board, District 31, is scheduled to visit the White House tomorrow to be briefed on the Clintons' health care reform.

The Rosebank resident was invited as part of a group of leaders of Italian-American heritage who are in health care management and administration. In addition to his school board responsibilities, Cammarata consults to over 120 hospitals and nursing homes in the metropolitan area and is the liaison officer of the World Safety Organization to the United Nations.

Maureen Seaberg
and Tom Flannagan

INSIDE OUT